HOW TO PREPARE FOR SKILL ASSESSMENT FOR SUCCESSFUL PLACEMENT

Skill Assessment

Skill assessment is usually an aptitude-based test that helps in determining the reasoning & analytical quotient of a candidate. This test usually consists of multiple-choice aptitude-based questions which need to be solved by a pen on paper.

Skill assessment tests usually consist of a few sections such as communication skills, logical reasoning, quantitative ability & knowledge about your field.

Here are a few tips for aptitude preparations for placements.

1. Solve random aptitude-based tasks constantly & consistently.
2. Gather previous aptitude test papers & solve them to get hands-on experience.
3. Talk to professionals/seniors in your domain & ask for relevant tips.
4. Don't shy away from taking feedback.
5. Work with resources such as Practice set books, sample papers & practice papers.
6. Acquire in-depth knowledge of your core field as much as you can

Panel Interview Round

As the name suggests, a panel interview round is wherein a panel of professional recruiting managers interview a potential candidate face to face. This a more professional than an aptitude or group discussion round. This is the first time a candidate has one–on–one communication with professionals of a company. This round determines whether the candidate should be moved forward or not. Hence the importance of this round is much higher.

How to Prepare for Panel Round Interview

1. Gain Confidence - Confidence is a must-have trait when it comes to a panel interview. Practice for panel round interview by asking your family or friends to take your interview. Ask for feedback once the interview is over and work on it to be better.

2. Clarity of Thought - Be clear in your head about all the generic questions that are usually asked during an interview. Some of these questions can be: take us through your profile, why do you want to join our company, where do you see yourself 5 years from now, etc.

3. Research Well - Before appearing for a panel interview, make sure you have researched well about the company, the position they are offering, the values of the firm & so on.
