Personal Profile

I am Raj Barat, a seasoned hospitality professional with over 18 years of diverse experience in the industry, primarily as a chef. I hold a Bachelor's degree in Hotel Management and a Master’s in Business Administration, which have collectively shaped my holistic understanding of both culinary arts and business operations within hospitality.

Recently transitioning into academia, I have actively engaged in several Faculty Development Programs (FDPs) aimed at enhancing educational quality and bridging the gap between industry practices and academic instruction. These include topics such as Aligning Hospitality Education to Industry Needs, Career Growth Strategies for Academicians, and Creating Impactful Presentations, among others.

My research interests lie in culinary innovations, with a specific focus on Ayurvedic cuisine—exploring the intersection of traditional wellness principles and modern trends.
